Our little Amelia the farmers buxom feline, was just at the romantic age when the deep rough masculine call of the neighborhood sheik set her little heart all a flutter. In fact so many local sheiks were storming the neighborhood that their rough voices were disturbing the slumbers of the farmer. Promptly he set out to remove the cause by getting rid of his Amelia.

Al chucks her ~~in the back~~ IN a heavy bag adds a few bricks for good measure then steps down to the water front to do the dirty work. The bag sinks quickly out of sight and Al heaves a villianous laugh. At the bottom of the sea Amelia cuts through the bag and swims back to the wharf coming up right under the farmers hat. A hat chase follows. Al captures her at the house and ties her to a wagon and starts the wagon down a deep mountain to the river. Al starts home to laugh that off when Amelia and the wagon runs past him. This time he chases her into an old well and then kicks the well in.. Returning home he decided to take a refreshing drink from the pump, as soon as he finishes drinking Amelia and her wagon came thundering out of the pump followed by 97 healthy offsprings each in a little wagon. Proving that: "You Can't Keep A Good Cat Down".
